Central Research Laboratory (CRL)

Central Research Laboratory (CRL) is a facility started in 2012, which provides centralized research infrastructure to benefit investigators in multiple disciplines across Sri Manakula Vinayagar Medical College and Hospital (SMVMCH). CRL facility is available at two places in the college block of SMVMCH. Lab I is located on the first floor of the college building (Biochemistry Department) and Lab II is located at Second floor of college building (Microbiology Department) with 600 Sq. ft. and 550 Sq. ft area respectively, which provides sufficient space for multidisciplinary research.

The main objective is to provide support for faculties, PhD scholars, PG students and UG students for their research activities by providing technical assistance and access to advanced scientific instruments. This research may be in the form of faculty research projects, postgraduate dissertation work, PhD thesis work and undergraduate and postgraduate research projects and may involve human or animal subjects. The CRL also organizes training programmes, workshops/seminars and CME's for staff and research scholars in the focused areas of research.

Molecular biology setup at CRL is useful for doing research at the advanced level as well as for many diagnostic purposes such as dengue serotype identification, Scrub Typhus, Hepatitis, and confirmation of certain genetic disorders such as Prolidase deficiency, and cardiovascular diseases associated with gene polymorphisms at the molecular level. This laboratory offers an opportunity for DNA, RNA and protein isolation and analysis since it contains all necessary equipment, such as Thermal cycler (PCR), centrifuge, analytical balance, heating block, stirring hot plate, vortex, spin-down, spectrophotometer, HPLC, electrophoresis machines, and micropipettes. This facility is extensively used by our staff for completing their External and Internal Research funding projects, postgraduates for completing their thesis/research projects as well as by undergraduates to complete their STS ICMR projects and for other short term research projects.

Mammalian cell culture is one of the basic pillars of life sciences. Without the ability to grow cells in the lab, the fast progress in disciplines like cell biology, immunology, or cancer research would be unthinkable. Therefore we have started one more unit at the Department of Microbiology called Cell Culture Facility in late 2016. This facility is equipped with Class II Biosafety cabinet, CO2 incubator, inverted phase contrast microscope and Liquid Nitrogen Container. This facility is used for culturing viruses and mammalian cell lines that are being studied for drug discovery and nanotechnology applications, in addition to basic research questions. This Cell culture facility aim to expose students and faculties to basic techniques on mammalian cell culture and help them to conceptualize their application in scientific research.

The CRL research team currently focusing on work to clone the dengue virus protease gene to develop protease assay ELISA kit. Currently we are maintaining Vero cell line and Baby Hamster Kidney cell lines for dengue virus research. We have successfully isolated Dengue virus from Dengue patient's serum and maintaining virus stock for studying the virus at its molecular level and also anti-viral activity of Carica papaya extracts and other extracts on Vero cell line and Baby Hamster Kidney cell lines.

The following documents related to CRL are attached below

Annexure 1: List of equipment in Central Research Lab I with brand and price.

Annexure 2: List of equipment in Central Research Lab II with brand and price.

Annexure 3: List of ongoing and completed projects from CRL

Annexure 4: Publications from and utilizing CRL facilities
